The tables were designed and set by Mrs. Robert Hubbard and Mrs. Harry P. Davis. Mrs. Anne Harper met the guests. Mrs. W. S. FFA's Enter Mechanics Contest

Appomattox High School F. F. A. boys competed recently in their federation farm mechanics contest. The Appomattox team was composed of Richard Krantz, senior; Frank Inge, senior; and David Austin, junior. Competing in a field of nine schools, the local team finished in fourth spot. The contest was held at the William Campbell High School, at Naruna.

The William Campbell team finished in first place, with 1,443 points. Second place went to the Rustburg F. F. A. Chapter, with 1,137 points. Concord was third with 1,121, and Appomattox fourth with 981 points. Other teams in the contest represented F. F. A. Chapters from Amherst, Moneta, New London Academy, Huddleston, and Brookville High Schools.

The Appomattox second team placed first among the alternate teams with 1,295 points. This team was composed of James Carter, senior; Luther Reynolds, junior, and Ralph Inge, junior. Ralph Inge was third high scorer in the entire contest with a total of 475 points.

The Farm Mechanics Contest is a part of and somewhat a climax to the final test of certain phases of farm shop work taught in the vocational agriculture classes in high schools. The contest consisted of four parts: the quality of workmanship, safety ability of materials, durability, and the following of a given plan. The classes of four sawhorses, four farm gates, and four self feeders. Each included a test of tool identification, figuring board feet of lumber, and figuring a bill of materials necessary to build some labor saving farm device.

Attend Young Farmer Meeting

Ray Page, Sam Davidson, Bill Williamson, and Paul Wilburn, of the Appomattox Young Farmers Club attended the Area Young Farmer - Young Homemaker Convention last Friday. They were accompanied by their advisor, Lewis Motley, to the convention held at Park View High School, South Hill, Va.

The Southside Virginia Young Farmer Association is made up of the local associations, which are found throughout fourteen counties of Southside Virginia. The associations are made up of young men, out of school, who are engaged in farming. The Young Homemakers are the wives of some of these young farmers. The two groups are sponsored in the local communities by high school departments of agriculture and home economics.

One highlight of the convention saw the "Southside Young Farm Family" award for 1956 made to Galen Brutaker, of Franklin County. A second high point of the convention was the banquet address of Mr. William D. Poe, editor of "The Progressive Farmer." Mr. Poe praised the young farmer organization as a much needed association in rural America today. The successful farmer of today needs all the education that he can possibly get to meet the problems which he faces in a fast changing world. The Young Farmer Association is one of the few organizations set up for farmers with the primary aim of on-the-job education for better farming. The vocational agriculture departments of our high schools handle the education part of Young Farmer activities.

While education and the value of it were stressed at the convention, recreation was not forgotten. The closing hours of the convention found the members dancing to folk and square dance music, and to calls by Mr. W. H. Seawell, Director of Instruction, Mecklenburg County Schools.

Local Doctors Support Blood Donor Drive

Doctors C. G. O'Brien and Stanley Boyce this week issued the following statement regarding the great need for blood donors:

"We live in a great age of research and production of synthetics, but try as hard as the scientists may, they cannot reproduce an adequate substitute for blood. This wonderful liquid that flows through our blood vessels is greatly needed today as it was during the past war. Our blood bank is almost depleted and the response to the call for blood donors is poorly answered.

"Won't you please come to the Liberty Baptist Church on December 27, and offer your service?

"There will be a physician present and after an examination if he thinks you are able to give blood then you may. You will never miss this small amount of blood, but you may save someone's life."

The Blood Donor Committee has released figures showing that residents of Appomattox County received 68 pints of blood for emergency treatment since the last Bloodmobile visit in June.

They urge you to do your part to replace this generous gift to build up our reserves.

Please return signed donor cards to Newton Jennings.
